Demand Action on Climate Change

ADVOCACY DAYS ON CAPITIOL HILL

April 24-27, 2020

Temperatures are rising dramatically and dangerously everywhere, disrupting ecological systems and every type of human activity. Earth and its people are groaning and calling for us to respond in hope. We are all affected. The generations of tomorrow depend on what we do today.

Intersections of Climate Change and Economic Injustice

Travel to Washington, DC, with IRTF where we will join with hundreds from across the US to analyze current policies and envision ways to move forward to build the kind of world we need. Now!

Around the world, marginalized communities are experiencing the impacts of the climate crisis most profoundly. Women and children in these communities suffer the most, along with all those who are disproportionately affected by hunger, poverty, and the structural history of colonialism and racism. We‘ll attend the annual Ecumenical Advocacy Days conference, which will focus on this intersection between climate change and economic injustice as together we gather to “Imagine, God’s Earth and People Restored!”

The conference is a gathering of hundreds of people of faith and conscience, sharing our common beliefs—from our many traditions—in justice, peace, and the integrity of creation. We‘ll build our base of information and skills (including advocacy training) at workshops and plenary sessions.

After the conference, we‘ll take our united voices to our legislators on Capitol Hill, calling for progressive policy change on a number of domestic and international peace, justice, and humanitarian issues.
