IRTF's 20th annual SOCIAL JUSTICE TEACH-IN

Dear friends,

On Saturday, February 8, IRTF will present our 20th annual Social Justice Teach-In, in conjunction with Case Western Reserve University. The IRTF Teach-In is a great opportunity to learn about critical human rights issues (global and domestic) and hands-on skills to organize for change.

For the past three years, the Teach-In has attracted several hundred participants, mostly students from 30-35 area high schools and colleges. The Teach-In provides participants with information, skills, and resources to support social justice campaigns at their schools, congregations, and in their communities. While the event is geared toward students, people of all ages are welcome to attend.

Generous support from co-sponsors has enabled us to allow college and high school students to attend the Teach-In for free!

We invite you to co-sponsor this event.

Your co-sponsorship will enable students to attend the event for free, keep the admission for the general public at only $10, feed the crowd of 600+ attendees, and to offer a modest stipend to each of the workshop presenters.

Co-sponsorship levels:

$100 (2 free tickets, brunch + your organization's name in our program book)

$200 (4 free tickets, brunch + your organization's logo in our program book)
